Due to the strong fluctuations in fuel prices, the Holland Norway Lines uses a BAF (Bunker Adjustment Factor) to compensate these risks. The BAF changes when the MGO-oilprice per metric ton increases/decreases with intervals of 50 Euro's. The BAF is calculated on the average MGO-Oilprice per metric ton on the 20th of the previous month and the 20th of the current month on behalf of the next month, and the EUR/USD rates. If necessary, BAF will be adjusted every month but due to extreme fluctuations we reserve the right to adjust the BAF interim.
